PRIVACY POLICY

Coast employs procedural and technological measures, consistent with the demands of customer service, reasonably designed to protect your personally identifiable information from loss or unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration or destruction. Coast stores your personally identifiable information on secure computers located in a locked data center, to which only a small number of Coast employees involved in the management of the data center have physical access. Where reasonably practical, Coast uses encryption, firewalls and other security technology to help prevent unauthorized access to your personally identifiable information.
